Popularity of the Poenmatic Tire-A Sale Lake Veteran Describes the Proper Position-Wheel Notes.

How difficult it is to induce people to adopt a condition obviously superior to the one they possess, simply because it involves a change. The history of the world points to the fact that almost every ivancement in the direction indica has been attained only through the trib-ulations of advanced thinkers, as years have rolled on, until now we are in close communion with nearly the whole earth, nd are enjoying every luxury, where and are enjoying every luxury, where formerly crude necessity was only comprehended. Not the least of luxury and utility are found in the modern bicycle. Our citizens have been slow, in comparison with other communities, in adopting this instrument of pleasure, utility and health, although cycling has received a wonderful impetus this spring. Even the ladies seem to be grasping the situation, and there is indeed reason to hope that they will become leaders in this great sport.

suspecting that there very breath contained the only perfect spring, and that too without weight. The harnessing of compressed air was the climax of the those years and supplanted them with a quality which absorbs vibration at the point of contact on the ground, thereby enabling them to reduce the weight of wheels considerably without reducing the strength by comparison with the old systems of tires and weights, and enables the rider to pass rapidly over a rough surface with ease and delight.

At first trouble was met with in repairing punctures, and the idea was hooted by many mechanics and experienced riders. Now, the question of repairing is not only an easy one, but we have a tire which is self-healing in case of puncture, and possessing all the desirable features extant in addition thereto. Think of using such a tire, with air compressed to thirty-five pounds to the square inch, month after meant with a feeling of perthirty-five pounds to the square inch, month after month with a feeling of perfect security against having your wind let out by a tack or nail business end up. This tire may be seen on a wheel at one of the city agencies.

Regarding the important subject, one of the oldest riders in the city says:

'Much has been said of late concerning the proper position for a rider to occupy on his wheel, and yet very little to the point. The present side-sitting style so long in use by the ladies in horseback riding, was brought about by a certain queen having an impediment which necessitated this position, neither graceful nor modest by comparison with the natural position astride. Were it not for the knowledge of the source of the stooping position in cycling, the question of deformity would suggest itself as in the other case. Briefly stated, this position is the result of the growing desire to develope speed both on the track and path. The greatest factor to overcome in attaining speed, is found in alr pressure, hence the disposition to stoop and reduce the surface of the body to a minimum, and in order to accomplish this, and at the same time preserve the equilibrium, it is necessary to place the saddle arther bock than consignation. the oldest riders in the city says: position astride. Were it not for the knowledge of the source of the stooping position in cycling, the question of deformity would suggest itself as in the other case. Briefly stated, this position is the result of the growing desire to develope speed both on the track and path. The greatest factor to overcome in attaining speed, is found in air pressure, hence the disposition to stoop and reduce the surface of the body to a minimum, and in order to accomplish this, and at the same time preserve the saddle farther back than consistent with an upright position. The real mission of the wheel does not reat in high speed, but comfort and utility, and therefore air pressure is of small moment except in racing. In the light of human anatomy and experience the rider should adjust his wheel so that his body will incline slightly forward at the shoulders, yot keeping the spinal column straight as in walking; arms straight, but not stretched; pedals at lowest point within easy reaching distance of the heel, and center of the saddle from nine to ten inches back from a perpendicular line drawn through the center of the crankshaft."

Our informant is a rider of seventeen years' experience, who has owned and ridden the products of about a dozen different for the kind of a sound and ridden the products of about a dozen different for the kind of a sound and ridden the products of about a dozen different for the kind of a sound and ridden the products of about a dozen different for the kind of a sound of the surface of the heef and their trade elsewhere." Of course, such an unusual method of clear ing a shop created much discussion, but it was a desperate remedy tried by Mr. De Kiyn, who has been greatly annoyed by the loiterers and whose trade has been interfered with. years' experience, who has owned and ridden the products of about a dozen disterent makers, and has grown in enthusiasm until now he gives vent to his feelings in this expression: "An 1893 high grade wheel, with self-healing pneumatic tires, is a revelation which the products of former years have only hinted at."

The finest and the best, that's what we all want; the best for the least money. The way to get this knowledge is to look around. Don't take somebody's word that they have the only wheel in the market. I am talking bicycle now. Don't part with your money hastily and repent at leisure. It will pay inteading purchasers to investigate the Keating, lightest, best, strong as steel can make them.

The Salt Lake Cycle company, State street—In the large and elegant show rooms of the Salt Lake Cycle company on State street, opposite the Knutsford hotel, can be seen the finest line of bicycles ever shown in any city west of Chicago. As a leader they carry the famous Cleveprehended. Not the least of luxury and utility are found in the modern bloycle. Our citizens have been slow, in comparison with other communities, in adopting this instrument of pleasure, utility and health, although cycling has received a wonderful impetus this spring. Even the ladies seem to be grasping the situation, and there is indeed reason to hope that they will become leaders in this great sport.

The idea recently advanced of helding a lantern parade meets with general approval, and the leading dealers—Messa. Jensen, Angell, Caine, Emise, Evans, Browning and others—will give it their support. If the matter is properly handled, it is believed that at least 250 wheels will be seen in the parade, and the absolute novelty of the thing would make it more interesting than half a dozen meets.

Being on the only paved thoroughfars in the city, they offer special inducements to purchasers, they being able to test their wheels with safety to themselves before purchasing.

"REMARKS

THE LITERARY SENSATION OF THE AGE. . . . . .

OVER 500 PAGES 150 ILLUSTRATIONS Handsomely Bound in Stiff Paper Covers. LAUGH AND GROW FAT.

A collection of the best writings of this great author, most profusely illustrated, with over 60 pages. It is the funniest book ever pub-lished. Bill Nye needs no introduction. The mention of the book is enough: BILL NYE'S REMAKES:

"Thave passed through an earthquake and an indian outbreak but I would rainer ride an earthquake without saddle or bridle, than to bestride a successful bruncho eruption."

"Age brings caution and a lot of shop-worn experience, purchased at the highest market price. Time brings valu regrets and wisdom teeth that can be left in a glass of water vernight."

PRESS NOTICES:

"When Bill Nye turns himself loose for fun the laughing belts of readers should be tightened to prevent accidents."—Inter-Geung, Chicago.

"Bill Nye always interests and his genfal, big-hearted sunny nature shines through every line in his book."—Filiaburg Press.

"We believe that Bill Nye is the brightest humorist of the day. No chan of in the English language can ever do eway with his fun. He is a public benefactor; one of the greatest men of his age. We shudder to think what will besome of us when he is gone. May fate stay the tay.—Philadelphia. Press.
